

Team Members' Biographies

Millennium Benefits Consulting (MBC) has seven professionals who bring over 135+ years of experience from national health plans, employer benefits departments and national benefit consulting houses. Our diverse backgrounds and contrastingly unified team approach allow us to produce personalized benefit consulting with a focus on delivering unsurpassed service. Our office in Atlanta provides a heightened sense of teamwork, expertise and service for our clients.

Angie Marchant Partner

Angie brings over 20 years of employee benefit expertise in the areas of client management, benefit consulting and operational management. As a founding partner of Millennium Benefits Consulting, she has extensive experience in building client relationships, driving growth and service expectations, and orchestrating success and growth for Millennium's book of business.

At Millennium, Angie takes the lead role in directing all client relationships. Specifically, she oversees the development of long-term benefit strategies, financial account management plans, communication strategies, and service relationships with vendors. With her creativity and impeccable organization, Angie drives well-executed strategies for all clients ensuring that their business goals are achieved.

She lives in East Cobb with her husband Mike and is blessed to be the mom of two young ladies. Her daughter Jessi is substitute teaching in Cobb County and her daughter Char attends at Kennesaw State University. Tennis, scrapbooking and hanging out with Mike take up her spare time.

Keith Tallmadge Partner

As a Partner of Millennium Benefits Consulting, sales, benefit consulting and financial management are the strengths that Keith brings to the organization. Keith has a 20 year history in the benefit arena of successful relationship building that results in long-term partnerships and positive business development.

At Millennium, Keith takes the lead role in vision casting, soliciting new business and establishing a solid financial basis for all of the clients' benefit plans. With his extensive knowledge of the various financial arrangements and legal implications surrounding corporate benefit packages, Keith ensures our clients have a solid financial platform for their benefit plan. Keith's strength also lies in looking down the road – helping our clients and Millennium as an organization look ahead and solidify long-term goals.

He currently resides in Atlanta with his wife and two high-school aged sons. Keith's other son is studying at the University of Alabama. As a family, the Tallmadges are actively involved in the Dunwoody Community.

Rebecca Stewart Senior Account Executive

Rebecca brings over 16 years of experience in the benefits arena to her position as Senior Account Executive at Millennium. With a background working for several national benefit consulting firms, Rebecca has been exposed to a variety of benefit plans, challenges and successes. Her previous responsibilities included managing a book of business including full financial review, benefit cost projections, renewals, budgeting, benefit design, marketing and implementation.

At Millennium, Rebecca's role is to pursue and create new business relationships. With her consulting experience, she can assess a prospect's current benefit strategy and accurately determine when a company would be a good fit for MBC. Her experience with claims payment systems is also a plus, with funding and contribution strategies driving many decisions that employers must make.

Rebecca and her husband David live in the northern suburbs of Atlanta. She is an avid runner and enjoys reading and preparing gourmet meals for family and friends.

Sean Murphy Senior Consultant

Sean brings a rich background in all areas of employee benefit consulting to his role as Senior Consultant at Millennium. Sean has over 30 years of experience in the industry including leading the benefit consulting practice for two national brokerage/consulting firms. He has also implemented wellness programs and 401[k] plans, as well as a variety of employee communication initiatives and projects with clients over the years.

At Millennium, Sean's role is to develop new business and relationships. His strength is in the area of strategic planning, which serves him well in meeting prospective clients and assessing their overall benefit plan and goals. Having experience in plan design alternatives, funding analysis and financial forecasting helps him understand the details of benefit plans. And, his experience with carrier negotiations simply means that he knows what it takes to get the best value for your benefit dollar.

Sean lives in Atlanta with his wife Sarah. In his free time he enjoys golf and traveling.

Angela Colwart Financial Manager

Bringing the perspective from the employer side of the business, Angela offers 20 years of expertise in the areas of broker consulting and strategic benefit management and administration. Angela's core competencies include strategic financial analysis and an eye for detail in benefit administration.

At Millennium, Angela has worked aggressively and diligently in financial management and analysis. Her responsibilities include not only the month-to-month oversight but also the forecasting and projections tied to each client's business objectives. Her background in system conversions and implementation, benefit compliance, and acquisition and divestitures also serves our client base.

She lives in the northern suburbs of Cobb County with her husband and two children, Makenzie and Bryson. Angela is active in her church, serving at the children's school and is a work-out enthusiast.

Jennifer Whitmire Communications Manager

Jennifer brings a background in the managed care and communications arenas and 11 years of experience in the industry to her role as Communications Manager at Millennium. Displaying the ability of Millennium to meet and exceed the needs of clients, Jennifer focuses on the importance of educating employees about their benefits.

Jennifer has evolved into a Communications Manager at Millennium. With expertise in writing and communication skills, Jennifer provides materials to clients that speak to the audience. Working from the creation of a piece, to the editing and final printing, Jennifer works with clients to develop educational materials for employees, executives or any other sub-group within an organization. Millennium, under Jennifer's direction, strives to provide a strategic communication plan for each client.

Jennifer lives in the outskirts of Athens, Georgia with her husband Brook and children, Allie and James. She volunteers regularly at her children's school, enjoys Jazzercise and cooking. As a family, the Whitmires attend many events and functions at the University of Georgia.

Taylor Raines Client Service Manager

Taylor brings a background in various roles with a national insurance carrier to his position as Client Service Manager to Millennium. As an Account Service Associate, Taylor learned how to navigate through complex claim and member service issues as well as create plan design options to meet the needs of his clients. One of Taylor's unique strengths is his ability to understand the local climate of a client, knowing that the needs of a specific population must be met in order for them to fully appreciate and understand their benefit package.

At Millennium, Taylor's role is to help serve and manage our client base. His strengths of problem solving with a determination to follow through make him perfectly equipped to be our clients' first point of contact for day-to-day service management and concerns. His healthcare knowledge and experience with claims systems and analysis provide him with the background to bring resolution to situations and look broadly to implement long-term solutions. He is Millennium's primary liaison between the carrier and our clients for all employee and employer concerns.

Taylor and his wife Megan live in the Virginia Highlands area of Atlanta where they enjoy the wonderful shops and great restaurants. Taylor and Megan are both active Auburn Alumni and spend most of their fall weekends attending Auburn football games.

Eva Giang Financial Assistant

Eva brings a background in economics with experience in financial analysis and calculations to her position as Financial Assistant at Millennium. With a degree in economics from Emory University, Eva has used her education to be a fixed asset manager for an Atlanta-based company. Her ability and experience with financial analysis allows her to be an excellent support for the Financial Manager at MBC. Her role is to provide assistance for the Financial Manager and all other team members.

Originally from Boston, Eva now resides in Atlanta. In her free-time, she enjoys yoga, rock climbing, dancing and sewing.

Lindsay Little Administrative Specialist

Lindsay brings a background in administrative skills and data management to her role as Administrative Specialist at Millennium. With experience in excel and publisher, Lindsay assists in preparing and analyzing monthly, quarterly and annual reporting packages for our clients. She also assists in claim issue resolution, event planning, document drafting and general administration. Her efficiency and organization are an asset to a busy office environment.

Lindsay lives in Marietta and is a student at Kennesaw State University, where she is pursuing a degree in Marketing with a minor in Spanish. Between work and her studies, Lindsay finds a little time to go camping, cook and tinker on bikes and cars. She is also a volunteer with Habitat for Humanity.
